DAIRYMEN APPLYING

Want Their Herds to Be Given Tubercular Test by City.

Dr. Stanton H. Barrett, director of health, states that a number of applications are coming in from the dairymen of this county for their herds to be tubercular tested. However, there are some who have not yet sent their anplications in to the health department.
As all herds must be tested or the anplications in the office by July 16, Dr.
Barrett requests those who have not sent the desired information to his office in the city hall to do so at once.
Dr. Parker, of the United States department of agriculture, is working in co-operation with the city health officials and has tested many cattle in the district. An advantage in having the test made by the government officials is that after it has been made for two years in succession, and the instructions of the government foi-neials is that after it has been made for two years in succession, and the instructions of the government fol-lowed out by the dairymen, the dairy will be placed on what is known as the accredited list. This shows that the herd is free from tuberculosis, and no further testing is necessary except when new cows are added to the herd. This test made by Dr. Parker is free and the only expense that the dairyman has to bear is the tester's transporta-tion to the farm and his board while there testing the herd.

Pretty Home Wedding Celebrated at Cleveland—Dr. Brown Officiated. Cleveland, June 28. — (Special.) — A pretty home wedding was celebrated Wednesday evening when Miss Nellie Ovilla Payne and B. Frank Kyker were married at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Katherine Payne, on West Central avenue.

The house was tastefully decorated in potted plants and sweet peas and the ceremony was performed by Dr. O. E. Brown, of Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, the full ring ceremony being used. Miss Ruth Alken presided at the plano and rendered the bridal chorus from Lohengrin as the bride and groom entered the parior. The bride was attractive in her wedding gown of white georgette crepa wearing a picture hat of white troses and white sweetpeas. Her going away suit was a tailored suit of blue with hat and gioves to match. The bride is the third daughter of Mrs. Katherine Payne and was one of Cleveland's most charming young ladies. She has been a trusted employe of the Merchants bank, in this city, for the past two years, where she was bookkeeper, and the firm attested their appreciation by presenting her with a handsome chest of silver. Mr. Kyker is a son of B. E. Kyker, of Athens, but has been doing Y. M. C. A. work at Fort Oglethorpe the past year, being secretary of the work there, and will remain until August. He will then go to Huntsville, Ala., to accept a position as principal of the commercial department of the Huntaville High school. Immediately following the ceramony Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Julian, and Mrs. D. W. Patterson, of Athens. #### EARLY LIFE OF MRS JULIA GOTTSCHALK

HER FORTUNE AMASSED IN CHATTANOOGA.

Giver of Thousands of Dollars to Charity Lived Alone.

While the entire public was over-whelmed with surprise at the benefi-cent gifts of the late Mrs. Julia Gottschalk as provided in her will, her near relatives say they were not, for she had always expressed a de-sire to place her money where it would do the most good.

Mrs. Gottschalk would have been 68 years old June 23 and she died on June 21. Her total bequests amount June 21. Her total bequests amounted to nearly $150,000, and outside of legacies to close relatives the remainder of the estate was willed to charities. This fortune had been amassed since Mrs. Gottschalk's mar-charities. This location had been amassed since Mrs. Gottschalk's marriage.

She came to Chattanooga in 1874 and was married in 1875 to James Gottschalk, and had lived in Chattanooga ever since with the exception of from September, 1878, to November, 1878, when, they refugeed on account of the yellow fever scourge prevailing here at that time. Her husband, James Gottschalk, died in 1890 when they were living in their cottage on Lockout mountain, opposite the David Giles place. After her husband's death Mrs. Gottschalk moved to the city and lived alone until her death. No children had ever been born to the couple, and her nearest relatives were her brothers, Henry and Edwin Rose, and half brother, Albert Rose, all of this city. Before her marriage she was Miss Julia Rose, and at an early age developed quite a talent for music, which was encouraged and she became proficient in plano music. Hewever, in her later years her music was almost abandoned and no especial interest was taken in the local music clubs. later.

The roll call was made by districts. The resignation of Mrs. Leslie Warner, who is ill in a Nashville hospital, was received with regret. Mrs. Marc Anthony was appointed to fill a vascncy in the Ninth district. HISTORIC CITY ALL IN A BUSTLE.

Chateau That Housed Kings of France Gorgeously Fitted for Ceremony.

Long before dawn throngs began pushing their way into the city and surging up against the lines of French cavalry and infantry guarding all approaches to the palace and the Hotel Reservoir, a block away, where the headquarters of the German peace mission awaited the arrival of Foreign Minister Mueller and the new peace delegates from Berlin.

The magnificent old chateau that housed the kings of France before the revolution has bene gorgeously fitted for the occasion. Rare tapestries, rich carpets and superb furniture were placed in all the apartments through which the allied and German delegates and the six hundred guests and newspaper correspondents were to make their approach to the Hall of Mirrors, the scene of the ceremony.

their approach to the Hall of Mirrors, the scene of the ceremony.

The French national furniture depositories were ransacked for their choicest specimens to provide the visitors with rich and harmonious surroundings and give a fitting setting to the occasion. The fineat pieces were placed in the Hall of Mirrors, where the gem of the collection was the jewel cabinet of Marie Antoinette.

The central portion of the great hall, accommodating the peace plenipotentiaries was raised four inches. Standing in the center was a massive table of the regence atyle, which was destined to take its place among the world's most important treasures. Upon it, first, Premier Clemenceau, as president of the peace conference, and then Lloyd George and President Wilson and the remaining delegates, in alphabetical order, followed by the Germans, were to affix their signatures, while seated in an armchair of rose and gold, once the throne of monarchs.

Around this center table were grouped smaller tables for the plenipotentiaries with magnificantly upholstered chairs. On the ceiling overhead were two historic paintings done in 1682, one depicting French troops occupying Strassburg and the other signalizing Louis XIV's victory in driving the Germans across the Rhine.

Immediately above Clemenceau's seat was the inscription, somewhat incon-

AIV's victory in driving the Germans across the Rhine.

Immediately above Clemenceau's seat was the inscription, somewhat incongruous in today's ceremony:

"The king alone governs."

At either end of the Hall of Mirrors upholstered benches had been reserved for the correspondents and distinguished visitors.

The allied peace delegates were to enter the palace from the queen's entrance through a guard of honor especially chosen from the republican guard. The Germans were to enter from another corridor and traverse the apartment of the dauphin in making their way to the Hall of Mirrors. When all the delegates were assembled, Henry Martin, chief du protocle, was to enter, carrying the bound, printed copy of the treaty. Clemenceau was to make a brief address, and then sign the treaty.

Preparations were made to play the reaty.

Preparations were made to play the famous fountains around the Basin de la Tona as the last signature was attached, and the allied and Germa delegates made their egress through doors leading out upon the terrace facing Versailles park.
